Subject: Ventura Caught -- Gordon Duff and Kaminski puffing phony-investigator Jesse Ventura on Pentagon attack and his crock of bullshit

All right John -- you stepped over the line.

I saw what you were doing and what to expect with the damning with faint praise for a scrawled memo -- I know why it was there and why you led with it - right away, before scrolling down to the bullshit from Duff and Ventura you were handing out. They got to you -- and I was a fool to think you could be reclaimed.

Ventura is not the only one going down on the intellectual mat, Mr. Kaminsky (intentional). If you want to defend Ventura's rubbish non-evidence and omissions of the real evidence in the matter of the false-flag attack on the Pentagon -- I am more than willing to accomodate you. But it must be a big audience forum.

This is Bcc'd to the original group you mailed, referencing me and the bogus Duff-Ventura piece.

This just went on your "most important story of the year" -- Ventura's fraudulent misrepresentation of the 9-11 Pentagon evidence.

Subject: -- Gordon Duff and Kaminski puffing phony-investigator Jesse Ventura on Pentagon attack is a crock of bullshit -- Eastman challenges wimp Ventura to a no holds barred in the ring and the arena

Tell that Chicken Neck Ventura that I'll met him in the ring if he meets me first for alternate ten minute rounds for two hours -- minus commercials -- on his Pentagon evidence being bogus and mine, which he ignored, being genuine, on Jeff Rense. -- Dick Eastman, 240 pounds

Jesse Ventura is an Arnold Schwarzenegger and a Ross Perot and Alex Jones and a Jim Fetzer all in one. And Kaminski and Gordon Duff are on his team.

Duff writes: "TV host, Jesse Ventura, former Navy Seal, former Governor of Minnesota, on a one hour documentary on prime-time American television, makes an open and shut criminal case tying Cheney, Rumsfeld and officials throughout the US government with complicity in the planning, execution and subsequent cover-up of the 9/11 attack on the Pentagon."

DE: Nothing controversial there, right. We all know there is an open and shut case against Cheney and Rumsfeld -- but notice that these sonsobitches don't mention Perle, Feith, Wolfowitz, Zakheim, Kissinger who were at the Pentagon and really where the plans of the operation as I showed in about 300 posts from 2002 to 2005.

Duff: "According to experts on 9/11, engineers, pilots, intelligence officers and members of our military, Jesse Ventura "hit the nail on the head."

DE: This is bullshit too. The architects and engineers for 9-11 truth group have never implicated one Jew or addressed the Pentagon attack. Pilots for 9-11 Truth are led by and full of "no-planers" -- the disinformation group that insists that no planes hit the WTC towers -- yes, they deny the planes hit the towers and honest investigators like me can't budge them from that position after years of persistent trying. Alex Jones and Ventura are in a lot of youtubes together -- interesting that neither one has ever responded to any of the material I have sent them over the years -- and yes, sure enough, Ventura gets the mainstream exposure that Fetzer and Morgan Reynolds (another no-planer) get. Before I go further, you might ask, who the hell am I to criticize these great 9-11 investigators, and you would be right -- because it 9 years I have only been interviewed by anyone on 9-11 three times -- and the only major internet alternative news figure who will even touch my Pentagon research on his website is Jeff Rense. Last I looked my research was still there for Ventura or Duff or Kaminski to consult -- but did they? Hell no. I also include the self-contained investigation of Barbara Honegger and of Carol Valentine -- but does Ventura mention either one? Hell no. Here is the evidence that Ventura completely avoided -- exactly as have Fetzer, Morgan, Popular Mechanics, New American and all of the other people who have tried either to debunk the "bombs-not-Boeing-at-the-Pentagon" analysis or else discredit it with high-profile (FoX News) presentation of totally absurd and bogus arguments while failing to mention the true conclusive evidence.

See Eastman and Honegger analyses here:

<http://www.rense.com/general86/hight1.htm> Highest Treason Substantiated

DUFF: "Ventura, using evidence developed over 9 years by hundreds of individuals, outlines the utter impossibility of the government's cover story on 9/11 and systematically debunks it using testimony and scientific evidence."

EASTMAN: Bullshit.

DUFF: Ventura cites, in an interview with a 9/11 commissioner, a possible motive for the Pentagon attack being included with the attacks on the World Trade Center. $2,300,000,000,000, yes 2.3 trillion US dollars had disappeared, cited only the day before in a televised statement by Secretary Rumsfeld, money "gone missing" from the Pentagon's accounting.

EASTMAN: Fact: This was a cheap shot - as I pointed out when I first checked out this claim. It is a false argument -- and notice that it is the first argument mentioned. I admit that I myself helped spread this accusation when it first appeared -- but later checked it out and retracted. (As an investigator looking for the solid case for a grand jury or an impartial impeachment committee -- I wanted only true proofs from evidence. You will see that my proofs are based on photographs and multiple witness statements -- whereas this is based from the outset on one misrepresentation that has been repeated and repeated. And I say this as a man who has nailed Zakheim for complicity on the real grounds that exist -- the grounds of his systems being used in the remote-controlled aircraft used that day. But back to Rumsfeld -- what Rumsfeld really was saying was that there was a new computer system going up and that it was needed because could not handle 2.3 trillion "gone missing" -- meaning the Pentagon budget that the computer system would keep track of. He did not at any time say that 2.3 trillion were actually lost and unaccounted for.

The real story on the computer change is that they wanted to destroy the old system -- remember the auditors were in the part of the building that was destroyed -- in order to eliminate the paper trail that would show the financing of what turned out to be the false-flag operation. I'm sure of it -- whatever the hell my being sure may mean to you versus Ventura, Kaminski or Duff being sure.

DUFF: "The area of the Pentagon hit by a missile or destroyed by explosives or both contained all records of this missing money. NO PLANE, NO WAY, NOT EVEN CLOSE"

EASTMAN: See above.

DUFF: "Ventura proves, beyond any doubt that no airplane every hit the Pentagon. As the video shows, not even a highly trained airline pilot was capable of the maneuvers claimed. Long before, it had been proven that the 757 was incapable of the task, either the maneuvers or the speed and trajectory. The plane would have come apart, there is no disagreement with this and hasn't been for some time, yet nothing had been done. Why?"

EASTMAN: This is also a phony and unconvincing argument -- ignoring the real arguments I presented. Note first of all that the no-planers also say that the planes crashing into the WTC were impossible for a variety of reasons. The scientific fact of the matter is that "impossibility" cannot be demonstrated in this way. All that can be said is that it would probably impossible to duplicate what is claimed to have happened (whichever contradictory account you choose as the official version) -- impossible to duplicate is certainly a reasonable thing to say -- to it is impossible to say that a freak event did not happen, it is impossible to say that a one-in-a-million successful critical path approach by Flight 77 that hit the wall as claimed could not have happened -- freakish things do happen and they can happen any time. (Freakish means it would not be predicted and that it was very improbable -- but Freakish does not mean impossible.) So, this second reason Ventura and Duff give is also not proof of anything.

Much more important is the fact that the black box recorder goes black before the plane attains the wall. This is not mentioned by Ventura.

DUFF: It is also clearly shown that there is absolutely no evidence of any kind showing a plane hit the Pentagon, no wreckage, no bodies, no luggage. Items claimed to have been taken to Dover Air Force Base, bodies, plane parts, were never at the Pentagon as both video and testimony prove.

EASTMAN: This is half truth -- the part about the absense of luggage or non-Pentagon-employee bodies is true and I was pointing this soon after Theyri Meiyssan in early 2002 after the release of the security camera videos in March of that year. However it is false that no plane wreckage was found. That shows that Ventura either did no homework or that he has intentionally made up an easily refutable lie -- and I think he did make up an easily refuted lie because he is working for the people that want his thesis refuted. (Note: a stupid hulk like Ventura making such easily refutable arguments is the most repulsive thing to an educated man who uses scientific standards of investigation as a carefully acquired habit. Like the no-planers he is making a stupid case -- and he is getting the full spotlight -- with Duff and Kaminski and Jones and all of the other fake investigators backing him up. (If Duff is not a part of this I invite him to check out everything I say here -- and admit it -- if he really loves his country more than his popularity and the promotion Ventura is giving him -- then he will admit he has backed a charlatan and shill for the cover-up. Otherwise, Duff will have been weighed in the scales and found wanting. As I was saying -- there was a lot of wreckage -- a lot of small sized aircraft pieces, some of which were positively identified to have come from an American Airlines Boeing 757. BUT BY DENYING THAT THERE WAS ANY WRECKAGE, VENTURA, THE SONOFABITCH TWINKIE WITH THE STUPID HORSE FACE -- FIGHT ME, TWINKIE!!!! -- CLOSES THE DOOR TO THE CONCLUSIVE EVIDENCE I BROUGHT TO THE FORE IN 2003 -- there was a famous piece of wreckage that was photographed at military photographer 10 minutes after the "event." It was a piece from the starboard side of an Am Air 757 as was easily demonstrated by the piece of the letter "n" and the double row of rivets on the piece. I showed that the piece came from the starboard side but that the piece was found north, not south, of where the hole was here it was said Flight 77 hit the building, found, that is, on what would have been the planes port, not starboard (left, not right; "dirvers side," not co-pilot's side) proving that the piece was planted on the wrong side of the plane. Ventura's false -- and so widely known to be false -- statement that there was no wreckage completely throws out this most important evidence from the case. Ventura, Kaminski, Duff have conspired to kill the real evidence and substituted bogus refutable garbage which they knowingly lie about when they call it proof. Let me add that the rivets and rust of the plane parts indicated that this part was from the wreckage of another plane that had been torn apart after a crash. Furthermore there was photographs of wreckage taken in the "C" ring corridor by FEMA photographers -- which I and others have shown to be not from the plane and inconsistent with the type of crash that was said to have taken place. For example, a pilots seat was found, but not one passenger seat was ever mentioned. Other parts like a tire were found. But I note that all of these things were photographed three days after the vent and in a corridor with truck access and all of them were of a portable size. I also mention that there was a C-130 that flew right over the lawn and helipad near the crash just 30 seconds after the explosion, which plane may have dropped some of the debris, including the famous starboard-side letter "n" debris. Ventura missed all of this and in fact covered it up when he insisted that there was no wreckage. Also Kaminski knows better too. He is definitely compromised to from the man I knew earlier -- don't ask me why.

DUFF: "There is also proof that the government threatened witnesses, telling them to support the "aircraft scenario."

Eastman: But I found witnesses and corresponded with them. Witnesses who put the approaching plane on a path that passed everywhere well north of the first downed lamppost -- proving that the flying object (remote controlled jet fighter, cruise missile, AGM or whatever) was an entirely different object than the plane that had witnesses attention. I also reported (see for yourself at the URL above) the statements of witnesses that there were two planes. One woman quoted in my evidence package on rense stated that she saw two planes approach at slightly different angels and one veer away at the last moment. All of this is lost with the claim that the government shut everyone up. That statement -- although partially true -- gives the false impression -- I am sure this was Ventura's aim (or the aim of the Mossad agent who wrote his material) gives the false impression that no one said anything indicating that the plane was small, that there were two planes, that witnesses can be divided into those who say something on one path near the pole and others that saw the big plane that passed north of the gas station which was north of the first light pole that was downed, the "taxi" pole.

DUFF: "The basis for the conspiracy theory regarding Muslim hijackers with box cutters was based on supposed phone calls made by Barbara Olson, wife of Bush Solicitor General. Solicitor General Olson claimed he talked to his wife on a cell phone, spoke with her at length, while she described the hijackings as now dramatized by Hollywood. When it was proven that a cell phone is incapable of making such calls, Olson claimed it was a "seat back phone." When it was proven that there were no seat back phones on American Airlines 757 aircraft, nothing further was asked.

EASTMAN: This is the work of my friend and fellow investigator, A. K. Dewdney, who actually made the test and came to the conclusion. Dewdney, although a former editor of Scientific American, a world famous expert of scientific and mathematically puzzles, has been completely ignored by the media -- but now it is taken up by Alex Jones and Kaminski's friend and Duff's friend, the BIG TWINKIE! (I'm ready for me -- who about that debate Chicken! Chicken! Chicken necked Chicken!!! That is if you are still alive after I twist your head off and make you eat it.

DUFF: Then investigations shows he received one call, lasting "0" seconds. Ventura questions as to whether Olson was duped or complicit? Should he be arrested too? Was his wife, Barbara, ever really on the plane?

EASTMAN: I pointed out that Olsen, Morgan Reynolds and were at the White House together. Reynolds is the one who jumped in the so-called "truther" movement -- a code word by which the disinformation operatives can recognize each other -- on the side of the "no-planes'-hit-the-WTC crowd." The fact is that Olsen's job as solicitor general is to keep the President and the administration out of court -- it was his job to manage the cover-up from the White House and Karl Roves job (the president had no brains and was a cipher with a button in his ear telling him what to say) to see that the facts the real Pentagon investigators were getting out (Dewdney, Honegger, Eastman, and maybe a dozen others -- all of them supplying information and photos that I used in making my case that is still up on Rense -- the only website still showing this evidence.) Olsen may have married Barbara just do destroy her. She was a bitter enemy of Hillary Clinton -- one very much a part of the 9-11 false-flag attack as it must have been planned when Clinton was in China for a month and Wolfowitz and Perle were there. No one can get near the white house who is not complicit. (That is an educated opinion -- which is an implication established only after the false-flag nature of the attack and Mossad complicity is confirmed. I have a thousand reasons for all the things I am writing now -- but I cannot give them all and expect anyone to read it -- no can I recall them all -- accumulated over more than 9 years. This letter is pure off-the-cuff outrage at the all-too obvious op by phony boy Jesse Ventura.

DUFF: "Then Ventura looks into the flight itself. Not only was the flight recorder "dead" but during the flight itself, the transponder was turned off. Even more suspicious, the plane disappeared from radar for 28 minutes.

EASTMAN: The flight recorder did record the flight path right up to the approach to the Pentagon. This is a much more incriminating fact than the falsehood that is claimed. Also, the transponder being turned off is not of itself a disproof of the official story. The whole story of the planes from the time they turned around and were lost until the crashes is filled with several things that have no explanation from the "boxcutter" story, but make perfect sense from a false 'flag point of view.

DUFF: There is no discussion of this 28 minutes, but speculation, perhaps no longer speculation, has long been that the flight landed.

EASTMAN: I left this alone after passing on the claims -- my whole record -- every post I made on the 9-11 from Nov 2001 on is archived here:

<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/frameup/messages/> use the "advanced search" for specifics. You can see who my story was refined by new facts as they came in. For example, I first argued that the Boeing came straight in and not at an angle because of witness accounts -- including diagrams in the Stars and Stripes newspaper. I proved -- valid reasoning - - that the plane could not have come that way because poles would have been knocked down that photos showed were not knocked down. Then the lamp pole pictures surfaced at I accepted that path. But that brought a lot of witnesses into contradicton with each other. I had pictures of the wall that was inconsistent with the story of Flight 77 crashing there (see the rense pages linked above) -- and so the only explanation was that the plane in Am Airlines livery that witnesses saw flew over the building while at least two different objects hit the building including explosives in a truck trailer that was parked right where the crash occurred -- which may have guided in all planes and missiles before self-destructing with a bright flash -- like a bright flash bulb -- that made witnesses miss seeing that the Boeing flew over the building -- only to land at Reagan National which has one runway begin exactly one mile from the beyond and to starboard from where the plane flew over the crash. Again, all of this is omitted by Ventura -- and his story actually leads people away from these multiple conclusive lines of evidence. (Of which there are four more on re-nse which I have not mentioned here and which shabaz-goy Twinkie did not mention.

DUFF: As to what happened then, we cannot guess, or can we. One of my friends, a former Pentagon official, had a friend on that aircraft. Not long ago, he asked me: "Gordon, what do you think happened to him, do you think he was executed? Bullet in the brain as they stepped off the plane or something even worse?"

EASTMAN: There was a class of children listed for Flight 77. There was Ann Judge who works for National Geographic with the job of locating lodging photographers and writers around the world in exotic hidden places. There were also people involved with microbiology and with the development of remote control aviation systems. Often a black-op will plan for the elimination of people involved in providing the technical help. They can kill them or relocate them. The CIA often stages phony deaths for agents they wish to re-locate. These are the worlds worst criminals -- drugs (Afghanistan opium, heroin) and arms smuggling and war profiteering. Also Israel is involved with means child slavery and black organ markets are a real possibility. This is intelligent and informed speculation -- regardless to how Hannity or O'Reilly or Beck would react if actually confronted with anything I have written here. I have never shied away from making these speculations -- because I am the most reliable person to talk on the subject who is willing to talk about it -- Ventura, or Jones or Duff is not. Who thinks Ventura has never heard of me if he has, as he says, emerged himself in the Pentagon evidence? Why did he skip every one of my conclusive lines of evidence for his pathetic array of claims that most real investigators know are bogus before he even got started?

DUFF: Ventura didn't go there. None of us want to. It requires visualizing a scene out of Auschwitz.

EASTMAN: So we see that Duff is sponsoring the Zionist Holocaust deception. Now we begin to suspect where his big bankroll is coming from -- like Alex Jone's funding which has just come to light. 9-11 is the sister deception to the Holocaust hoax. Auschwitz was a very well appointed work detention center, very much nicer than the Japanese got in San Francisco during WWII. Being at Auschwitz saved Jews from the firebombing of German cities. The Jews who died with the assimilationist Jewish Germans -- taken to Russia for work. Others went to Israel or the USSR. The real Holocaust was the Germans -- the phony Holocaust lie of the Zionists was only propaganda to justify killing Germans who knew too much about what really happened between Churchill and the Germans (like Hess) in the war. It was propaganda to justify the Morgenthau extermination of Germans. Just as 9-11 was used to justify a holocaust of Iraqis and Afghanistanis and soon Iranians and all along American, Germans, Canadians -- all put in the holocaust meatgrinder of Zionist hatred and revenge seeking of Christians, Moslems and any and every goy -- the Jews being a people who keep alive their blood grudges for thousands of years. You're darn right Ventura didn't go there - because "there" is Israel.

So I commit reputation suicide by attacking Gordon Duff -- as if the Jews who own Hollywood do not know how to package a man to make him your super hero -- they give him the lines, they know, by constant polling and test groups, what you respond positively too. Duff the clean good guy vet - and Ventura the action-hero nationally famous wrestler -- what could be more phony than a wrestler? but people don't think that -- they just see a "take charge" he-man -- like the bouncer at a bar who protects you from the low life looking for a fight -- the John Wayne we all want to take charge in fighting the bad guys in government -- that's what it is all about, including Alex Jone's gravelly voice. In case you wondered.

DUFF: Can Americans be so brutal, so devious, so traitorous? It isn't just Jesse Ventura that is willing to risk his life to bring it out, Fox News journalist Geraldo Rivera, several weeks ago, debunked the Building 7 collapse at the World Trade Center as "controlled demolition."

EASTMAN: Who is so naive as to think that Zionist Ruppert Murdoch married to a Chinese Communist and owning the biggest real news gate-keepers in the business - O'Reilly, Hannity, Beck etc., to keep out anything truthful about 9-11 or Israel or the real conspiracy behind the collapse of the US economy -- who is that stupid to think that Geraldo Rivera would suddenly buck 9 years of that hard-line policy on his own? He would not. He could not. If you have watched him even for a short time, you would know that he is incapable of biting the hand that feeds him and will only bark like a saucy poodle when he knows he is safe and secure on his masters lap. Rivera has not given one of the real pieces of evidence on the Pentagon -- he has not had physicist Steven Jones on his program to lay out the facts about thermite at the WTC. None of the best evidence ever has appeared on any Fox program or any mainstream news program or print publication. Chertoff, when I phoned in to Art Bell admitted he had heard of the case I had put together, but he said, he had to choose the most popular theories to address. I began to tell him how outrageous was his selectivity -- exactly as bad as Duff's, Ventura's, Reynold's. Fetters, and John Judge's (Judge is a story in itself, with the phony story of his stewardess who normally flew on Flight 77 and her impossible story of looking in the hole at the Pentagon "while passing out doughnuts" and seeing the tail section of the plane -- or her claim to have picked out from FBI photographs a picture of the arm of her stewardess friend who was on the plane because of a matching friendship bracelet the hand was wearing -- and it turns out that she like John Judge is an old Kennedy Assassination investigator -- as is Jim Fetzer. Of course I point out that a plane flying out of Reagan one mile from the Pentagon is going to have agents posing as stewardesses -- and it sure looks like T was one of them. (T is her single-letter first name.)

But I ramble -- and sputter at outrage that the liars and the 9-11 disinformation and cover-up artists still dominate the scene, still give off their smoke screen, still put up shields that everyone falls for.

I too was taken in by Duff. I have up to now put out all of his essays that have come my way, usually with expressions of admiration and gratitude. I AM NOT A MAN WHO IS JEALOUS FOR FAME. My outrage is purely at the rape and manslaughter of the truth when the fate of the nation -- everyone I love on this earth -- hangs in the balance. I get mad -- and I am serious about my offer. First I will beat the daylight out of that chicken neck in the ring -- or any place - - and then -- after he recovers I will take him apart again in a ten-minutes-him, ten-minutes me exchange that must last for at least two hours. I want both events videoed with agreement that text and videos can be put up by anyone on youtube or anywhere else.

How about it Twinkie?

And how about all of you readers -- who are you going to believe? or are you just going to shrug your shoulders and move on to other issues in the world?

Must I always stand alone? Why are men like Steven Jones and Christopher Bollyn and Dewdney and so many other good and intelligent and reasonable men -- men the public would listen and believe when they layed out the evidence systematically as they have in their writings -- why are they never heard, but the big mouths with the wrong story go right to the top? Must good men always lose because I can't get a hearing? Will good men always be shut down because the public thinks of stupid Ventura or Fetzer as models of what a concerned citizen 9-11 investigator looks like and how one thinks. Face it, Ventura is there to discredit the name of all 9-11 investigators.

Now let me send this before I repent of my language. (And I hope all of my quiet mild-mannered friends will realize this is war and I am in a battlefield where life and death issues are in play).

One more thing. If Ventura does chickens out fo the wrestling match -- I'll still met him in the arena of evidence,logic and honesty on rene -- or on Alex Jones, if Jones will stick to my conditions of alternating ten minute -- or five minute (for more action) exchanges.

Better have a dumpster outside where the wrestling match will be held. I want it in a city big enough to bring in a lot of video camera.

I know what everyone is thinking. He is so much outside the league of the other that he is going to get slaughtered. And of course you are right. That is why I have given Ventura a chance to win in wrestling where he might have a slight advantage going into the ring.

Sincerely and seriously,

Dick Eastman, Yakima, Washington

Top stories of 2010

Spingola's recap of Obama's phony history leads the list

After a quick perusal of some top ten news story lists courtesy of mainstream media, I didn't see Iraq, Afghanistan or the oil spill anywhere, all I saw was drunk celebrities and Wikispinjobs. So I figured I'd construct my own list -- that I guarantee will be more relevant to your individual needs than any type of propaganda you could pick up from the boob tube, which is corporate spin all the way, and usually hazardous to your health. Those stories you can forget about in two seconds; the stories on this list just might stay with you forever, and actually be beneficial to your health, mental and otherwise.

So here goes: Kaminski's choice of the ten best news stories of 2010, each one vital to your well being. (Ahem.) All American presidents are given tailored histories that fit the elite's idea of what history should be, so in that sense, it's no surprise that U.S. President Barack Obama owns an apparently sordid and definitely secret history which the powers that be don't want you to know. Nevertheless, actually hearing about it delivers a shockwave to the mind when you realize how far the spin has deviated from the reality, and like the details of almost every government operation that goes on these days, Obama's real story as delivered by his chief nemesis is a good barometer of how messed up America has become.

That's why I determined Deanna Spingola's "Barack Obama -- former CIA Agent" was my pick of best story of 2010, because it best typifies how the whole of American public life is a manipulated fraud dictated by those with an unlimited power to keep things secret, and that's why the best reporters are the ones who dig this stuff out, as Spingola, a rising star in the Internet radio ranks, did in her analysis of the words of Obama's preeminent critic, the outspoken reverend from Harlem, James David Manning.

Back during the summer of 2010, I decided to link to Spingola's website <http://www.spingola.com/> on the basis of three paragraphs in this story, three paragraphs that tell the story of American political reality much more clearly than reading the New York Times for a decade could provide. This is that excerpt.

"Obama, as an undercover agent, was allegedly the lead agent in the arms and money supply for the CIA-trained Taliban Army against the Soviet Army war machine. His actions were integral to the Taliban's success in their opposition to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan. Obama, it is publicly acknowledged, went to Pakistan in 1981. There is no way of knowing how often Obama traveled between Pakistan and Russia. According to Dr. Manning, Obama was an interpreter for the CIA during the war in Afghanistan. When Obama completed his CIA operations in the mid 1980s and returned to the U.S. he persuaded the State Department to maneuver his entrance into Harvard Law School; since the CIA, the U.S. president's personal agency for black operations throughout the world, also has connections to federal and state politicians, they managed to arrange Obama's entrance to yet another elite school in 1988.

"Percy Ellis Sutton, a civil-rights activist and lawyer, was the Manhattan Borough President from 1966 to 1977. He was an intelligence officer with the Tuskegee Airmen, the name of a group of African American pilots who were part of the 332nd Fighter Group of the U.S. Army Air Forces during World War II. Sutton entered Harlem politics and became a leader of the Harlem Clubhouse, known as the "Gang of Four" which has controlled Democratic politics in Harlem for at least fifty years. His Clubhouse allies were New York City Mayor David Dinkins, U.S. Representative Charles Rangel, and New York Secretary of State Basil Paterson, father of the currently beleaguered David Paterson who replaced Spitzer as New York Governor in 2008. Percy Sutton wrote a letter to Harvard officials requesting that they admit Obama as a student after a hiatus of five years (from 1983 when he allegedly left Columbia to 1988).

"Despite a five-year absence from the rigors of college activity he was accepted at Harvard where he excelled and on February 5, 1990, was elected president of the venerable celebrated Harvard Law Review, the highest student position at Harvard Law School, a term that lasts for one year. [3] After graduation he could have worked in any leading law firm except that he lacked the proper citizenship qualifications which would have come to light during the interview and normal background checks pursued by major law firms. Moreover, his academic deficiencies at Occidental College would have disqualified him from the top law firms. Furthermore, he was a CIA operative in the Middle East during the time that he was supposed to be attending Columbia University. So despite his Harvard achievements, Obama became a Saul Alinsky-style community organizer in South Chicago which alleviated the necessity of providing a legitimate background check. [4]"

Woven into an overall picture of who Obama really is and how he got there are the essential facts that prove conclusively this democratic president was assisted at every turn by powerful forces that eased his trip to the White House as thanks for all the favors he did along the way for those who control America's ugly reality. Read the whole story and learn a lot more at http://www.spingola.com/Barack_Obama_CIA.htm

In my mind, the best stories of the year are a combination of information we never get from traditional sources that usually overturns the general consensus about public events. Like the top story, the runnerup on my list is another story about a public figure promoted as a hero by the deep cover spinmasters, but to those with the experience to uncloak spin jobs that recur time after time, the deeper level reveals a dark con job aimed at misleading the public.

So No. 2 on my list is a searing analysis of media icon Noam Chomsky by the indefatigable researcher Dick Eastman, who is one of the most prolific yet underexposed investigators on the Internet, always tearing away at the veils that keep the public from understanding what's really going on. His title is rather long, "Chomsky is a Zionist Jew who has sabotaged American higher education and misleads us on 9-11 and Rothschild power and malevolence," as it appeared in the sharp-edged Australian news package Rebel News <http://www.rebelnews.org/opinion/terror/163750Noam%20Chomsky%20%20a%20fraud%20in%20linguistics%20%20and%20a%20doubleagent%20serving%20the%20conspiracy%20to%20destroy%20the%20American%20people%20for%20Trotskyism>

Coming in at No. 3 is a very long piece about a subject Americans should know but don't — the real story of their beloved Constitution. Knowledge magician Michael Tsarion reveals in "The Constitution Con" that America really didn't win its Revolutionary War, because the Jewish money ties kept freedom from becoming a reality, the same way they do today. This is the in depth analysis of what really happened in 1776 that you've been waiting for, proof positive that we've been scammed all these years.

Dr. Tom Termotto, The Gulf of Mexico is Dying <http://phoenixrisingfromthegulf.wordpress.com/> all share this spot for their stories about the Gulf of Mexico oil spill, which of course are all in direct opposition to everything they said on TV.

6. Ex-Marine Kevin Keefe was part of the Gaza Flotilla that was attacked by Israeli goons, who killed many people in cold blood. His eloquent responses to Jewish media slurs upheld the finest standards of responsible manhood, and among his many inspiring posts demolishing Jewish hypocrisy, my favorite was "Collecting Rocks and Getting Shot by the Israelis for Fun." <http://kenokeefe.wordpress.com/>

7. Authenticity in the trenches is what shows through from people who have been there, and don't want to be there again. Such an inspiring character trait has always been the hallmark of Joe Cortina, whose shocking reports about what really goes on in Gaza have galvanized the hope for justice for years. Weighing in at No. 7, is his "Israel – My Experiences There In The Summer Of 1989," seen at <http://www.rense.com/general90/89.htm> among many other places.

The No. 8 spot is filled by "Jews, Judaism and Jewishness," the perceptive story about the attitude that is destroying the world, by the Aussie Andrew Winkler, ringmaster at the aforementioned Rebel News.

<http://www.rebelnews.org/opinion/middle-east/565062-jews-judaism-and-jewishness>

The last two spots I've reserved for two of my favorites.

The hottest writer on the Web in 2010, winning the award by the sheer acclamation of everyone I know, is Gordon Duff of Veterans Today. Any number of his searing pieces torpedoing Israel's obvious sabotage of the United States could be included on this list, but he just keeps getting better so we're picking his recent homage to Jesse Ventura's reporting on 9/11 for purposes of filling the the No. 9 spot on this list.

<http://www.veteranstoday.com/2010/12/18/gordon-duff-gov-jesse-ventura-proves-911-cover-up-will-americas-government-fall/>

As good as Duff's heated invective has been in catapulting Veterans Today into the Internet forefront of the fight for freedom against the Jewish tyrants who have hijacked America, one personnel decision he made has been even better, and that was the addition of J. B. Campbell to that website's stable of commentators.

Speaking with a level of authenticity unmatched on the Worldwide Web, Campbell's penetrating portraits of what has gone wrong in American society render all the explanations of all those talking heads as just so much lying jibberish when compared to this normal person who knows the real American history, knows what the problems are, and knows what to do about it. Our choice at No. 10 on this list, titled Anti-Americanism, will grab you by the shirt and make you realize what blind dopes we have all been to believe the lies we've been told.

<http://poorrichardsblog.blogspot.com/search?q=campbell&updated-max=2010-12-13T08%3A07%3A00-08%3A00&max-results=20>

So that's it, a top ten to remember, and not a celebrity in sight. I honor the efforts of people trying to make a difference in a world where spin is dragging us down a sewer from which we will never emerge, unless . . . the ideas of the people on this list can somehow overcome the the raging, out-of-control beast known as our mainstream money and media moguls who control the pathetic punk puppets posing as our politicians.

Fredrick Töben reviews:

DEANNA SPINGOLA

THE RULING ELITE: A Study in Imperialism, Genocide and Emancipation,

1. An INTRODUCTION – not quite a monumental detour but in Bernard Shaw's sense of a PREFACE that is longer than the play itself.

Deanna Spingola

While visiting friends in Sydney it was Sepl who reminded me that the Allies during World War Two and thereafter regarded one of Adolf Hitler's weaknesses to be his sentimentality. I was unaware that such state is considered to be a character flaw because for me sentimentality is a hall-mark of being civilised, of feeling at home within one's cultural environment where the body and mind are at one, where emotions and intellect are balanced.

It is the generated folksiness of expressed emotions that give a society, a nation, freedom from economic/financial constraints. It is this quality that gives a nation its character, its people the moral and intellectual integrity where truth, honour, justice, among other civilising values, operate. Sentimentality transcends crass materialism and gives meaning to the maxim: wearing one's heart on one's sleeve. Unfortunately those who are not interested in the materialistic power kick, perhaps because of their personal sentimental journey, will always have to have their guard up when they meet the nihilistically-inspired materialistic vultures. More of this later.

It is also a truism that where there is no trust, relationships break down and a society begins to rot and the naked power quest emerges as an aphrodisiac where the moral virtue of truth-telling is regarded as a failure of nerve. It does not surprise me then that the German National Socialists banned secrecy/exclusivity-obsessed Freemasonry as a foreign element within the German body politics. But there is another more fundamental matter they acted upon. On 21 April 1933, a day after Adolf Hitler's birthday, Germany outlawed kosher slaughter, thereby attacking to the core a fundamental Jewish religious observance, and Germans justifiably claimed that such barbaric practices are not to be tolerated nor conducted in the civilized German Reich.

I find this historical fact helps in explaining why the Holocaust propaganda had to be developed against Germans: it deflects from this banning of kosher slaughter. The issue is currently alive in Australia on account of the ABC 4 Corners TV program that showed how cattle are killed in Indonesian slaughterhouses. Interestingly, Muslims agree to stun cattle prior to killing, something Jews refuse to do claiming their religion demands kosher practices be observed. Australians are currently still under the kosher slaughter spell and there is no heart within government nor in the Opposition to force the issue and to legislate on banning it outright. This is puzzling to anyone who watched the 2 June 2011 ABC TV 4 Corner's program because I would have thought that spell would have been broken by it – watching a cow standing last in line awaiting slaughter, shivering in fear as she observed her mates being mutilated on the killing floor. Still, there are individuals who claim the animal world is incapable of feeling emotions – it's just an animal – cattle! But that's the hallmark of Jewish religious thought – to divide the world into Jews and non-Jews/Goyim!

Interestingly, it is in the pre-verbal state of perceiving the world where a healthy instinct flourishes, and where any verbal con-job begins to unravel because there is a mismatch between physical phenomena and theoretical explanation.

The current classic example of such deception is the 10th Anniversary celebrations of the 9/11 tragedy. The official narrative, adopted by the 'free-and-democratic' western world, is one of death and suffering and of overcoming such grief – at the same time re-enforcing the enemy image of those who were responsible for causing this tragedy – Muslim terrorists.

It is now generally accepted by anyone who deeply looks into the physical events of 9/11 that what we physically observed on our television screens over-and-over, and what is passed off as the official story of what happened, is not synchronised. The non-verbal perceptions tell a different story to what we are offered. For example, on 8 September 2011 on Australia's SBS TV in a documentary peddling the official version of events, 'New York – The Centre of the World', journalist William Langewieshe claimed that Building 7 was brought down by oil-fire. It was obvious from his body language – eye lids flickering as he lied – that he himself didn't believe what he was saying. It got worse. A new version of events is floated: The Twin Towers were brought down by burning paper contained in those countless offices and not a word about this being a controlled demolition job.

When such nonsense is peddled in a serious film I simply reflect on the rubbish we have heard for decades from so-called Holocaust survivors who are so good at telling their tales of horror. Remember the ABC Good Morning America segment of 18 February 2009 where Herman Rosenblat for a decade celebrated himself, and his wife Rosa, as concentration camp survivors? As a little girl she would daily throw an apple to him through the fence. Years later they met on a blind date in New York and he proposed 'on the spot'.

GMA: Why did you tell such a big lie...?

Rosenblat: It was not a lie. It was my imagination, and in my imagination, in my mind, I believed it. Even now I believe it that she was there and she threw the apple to me.

GMA: How can you say it wasn't a lie? It wasn't true. You know it wasn't true.

Rosenblat: Yes, it wasn't true but in my imagination it was true.

GMA: Herman and Rosa Rosenblatt told their false story publicly for more than a decade but it all fell apart about six weeks ago after Holocaust scholars proved it was physically impossible for prisoners to approach the fence at the concentration camp where Herman was kept and that Rosa's family was actually more than 200 miles away.

GMA: Why did your wife go along with this? Did she ever express any reservations?

Rosenblat: Because she loves me! ... She loves me so much that if she thinks that's good for me she'll go along with it.

The 9/11 commemorations are following the narrative of the grieving pattern set by Holocaust remembrances that culminated in 1993 when the US taxpayer-funded US Holocaust Memorial Museum opened its doors in Washington.

The climate change controversy, which aims to establish a global tax system so as to guarantee a steady tax flow to the UN and other imperial/global power aspirants, such as the World Bank and the IMF, is using the Talmudic dialectic in order to eliminate any climate sceptics' murmurings, as illustrated by the following brief article:

Climate skeptics 'like racists', David Gardner, Los Angeles. The Advertiser, 31 August 2011

Al Gore caused controversy yesterday by comparing sceptics of global warming to racists. The former US vice-president recalled how society succeeded in marginalising racists in the civil rights area, and said climate-change sceptics must be defeated in the same way. Mr Gore claimed those questioning the veracity of climate-change science would be seen in the same negative light. "There came a time when racist comments would come up in conversation and in years past they were just natural," he said. "Then there came a time when people would say 'Why do you talk that way?' and slowly the conversation was won. We have to win the conversation on climate."

Mr Gore has been accused of exaggerating climate-change risks for his own political gain and conservative critics have claimed scientific research is skewed to play on the fears of the public. Last year, climate scientists working for the UN's Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change came under fire for exaggerating the threat of global warming. And in 2009, leaked emails from the University of East Anglia revealed scientists breached freedom of information laws by refusing to release raw temperature data.

A couple of weeks ago I saw a television news report – I saw it on TV so it must be true! – about a motorised armed column making its way from Libya to Niger, which allegedly did not include the Libyan leader Gaddafi. I then thought of the 1993 column of fleeing Iraqi's trying to escape the hell-hole that for them had become Kuwait as the Anglo-American-Zionist war machine began its offensive to reclaim Kuwait from Iraqi occupation. The US set up Sadam Hussein, then tore him down and effected regime change, much to the delight of the Iranians.

That human train of Iraqi and Palestinian civilians and military personnel stretching into the desert as far as the eye could see and desperately trying to reach Iraq was literally incinerated as the US war machine bombarded it to a standstill.

The Iraq-Kuwait conflict had begun on a wink-and-a nod when Iraq was under the impression that the USA would not intervene were it to re-claim Kuwait as one of its wayward provinces. The now pathetic UN Security Council con-job of having a Kuwaiti teenager, primed by a notable American advertising agency, stand before it proclaiming that Iraqi forces were tearing babies from their incubators reminded Revisionists of the usual Holocaust horror stories that upon close scrutiny proved to be nothing but memory fiction – outright lies. But the initial shock of being confronted by such gruesome tales lasts long enough in politicians who switch off reason and become compliant to foreign interests. That, at least, is the sentiment expressed by American citizens who oppose the US military serving Israel's interests.

The 19 March 2003 invasion and destruction of Iraq's infrastructure was based on the Weapons of Mass Destruction lie that served as a pretext to further humiliate Arab nationalism under the guise of bringing 'freedom-and-democracy' to the Middle East.

Interestingly, wherever the Anglo-American-Zionist war machine operates it is quick to introduce its controlled supply of new currency. Two crate loads of US currency has disappeared without a trace in Iraq. Wasn't there some rumour that Rumsfeld just a day before 9/11 announced that the Pentagon's budget was unaccounted for by some trillions? Even the Libyan rebels saw how a couple of containers loaded with money arrived from Britain – perhaps printed by Thomas de la Rue! – it is allegedly from Libyan assets frozen by Britain. I shall resist the temptation of contemplating on the mechanism how money is created out of nothing in the first instance!

Middle East politics is about resources – water and oil – but that is half the story. The other half concerns the bringing to fulfilment of Biblical prophecy. The so-called free-and-democratic western world is mainly Christian-oriented on whose back Judaism rides quite comfortably disseminating its own imperatives that Christian Zionists fervently embrace. For those who cannot embrace such transcendental directive, there is the secular version in the form of atheism and Freemasonry. In the latter case, globally each month every practising Freemason recites something about re-building King Solomon's temple in Jerusalem.

The Israeli-directed archaeological diggings beneath the Al Aqsa Mosque in Jerusalem/Al Quds recently found an artefact that allegedly proved there was Jewish habitation at that spot.

Rare discovery, The Advertiser, 26 July 2011, www.adelaidenow.com.au

A tiny golden bell – pulled after 2000 years from an ancient sewer beneath the Old City of Jerusalem – was unveiled by Israeli archaeologists, who hailed it as a rare find. The orb, one centimetre in diameter, has a small loop that appears to have been used to sew it on to the clothes of a wealthy city resident two millennia ago, archaeologists said on Sunday.

This is ill-boding for the Muslims who worship in the mosque because rumour has it that all that tunnelling beneath the city will eventually cause the collapse of the mosque, a prerequisite if King Solomon's third temple is to be re-built. In fact, the temple already exists in parts that merely need to be assembled when the call is received that a pure red heifer, without the blemish of a white hair, has been born into this world.

There is a pattern to this madness and it must be remembered that prior to the Kuwaiti tragedy, beginning in 1980, Iraq unwisely sided with the Anglo-American-Zionist war machine and acted as its proxy in a ten-year war against the Islamic Republic of Iran – which stood its ground because the 1979 Revolution had cleansed the political elite of individuals who would have, as members of the Saddam Hussein government had done, co-operated with the Anglo-American-Zionists. Anyone who plays power-politics with Iranians is wise to recall that the Ancient Persians invented the chess game!

The Libyan tragedy lingers on as Wikileaks exposes the close connection existing between the Gaddafi government and British and US secret services in respect of facilitating Iraqi and Afghanistani renditions on Libyan soil. The 21 December 1988 Lockerby episode is also, of course, still a live issue, not because the alleged perpetrator of this tragedy had gained his release from a Scottish prison on humanitarian grounds but rather because the Pan Am Flight 103 tragedy is regarded by thoughtful and reflective individuals as another 'insider job'. This is, of course, one of the significant hall-marks of any declining empire that attempts to last a little longer – setting a new dialectic like facilitating a controlled demolition.

Lockerby also served to bankrupt/terminate the great tradition-bearing world aviation icon Pan Am, perhaps thereby also heralding behind the scene and out of public gaze the deeper world financial ruptures that are so effectively hidden from sight and consideration by the 'shock-and-awe' pyrotechnics of 21st century warfare. As Captain Eric May reminded us, the image of Bagdad lighting up at night with mini nuclear weapons exploding is firmly fixed in most individuals' consciousness because global communications brought the tragedy into our living rooms.

And today in the USA and elsewhere – mainly through the media in the countries that made up the coalition of the willing – there is sombre celebration amidst the dire warning that another imminent terrorist attack could happen – a revenge attack because the US seals killed Osama bin Laden a little while ago.

It was heartening to see SBS TV screen a 2007 film Man on Wire, based on Frenchman Philippe Petit's 2002 book, To Reach The Clouds. After successfully walking on a steel cable stretched across the two Sydney Harbour Bridge towers, Petit, at 24 years of age did likewise a year later on 7 August 1974 from the top of the nearly completed WTC towers. From 10:30 pm to 1 am ABC TV screened live the 9/11 10th anniversary celebrations. It hurts to know that the official version of this event is an outright lie!

When will this global madness end? It seems to me that such globally significant acts of terrorism can be paralleled to the working concept of 'Devil' in religious discourse. Unfortunately, most individuals who can tell if they are watching a controlled demolition – as was the case when the WTC Twin Towers and Building 7 came down – are otherwise prevented from voicing their views publicly. In a world where the terrorism dictatorship is expressed so directly – you are either with us or against us – and there is a faltering world economic climate, then self-preservation in the form of avoiding dissent on the terrorism issue is the norm.

Here we see expressed the Talmudic death dialectic in full bloom, while the Hegelian life-giving dialectic brings with it a deeper appreciation, for example, of what causes 'terrorism'. After all, a terrorist for some is a 'freedom fighter' for another. This theme of emancipation from slavery features prominently within Spingola's book, which I reduce to even a simpler formula: the battle of the wills among individuals who live by differing value-systems.

In any case, reflective individuals realize that such fabricated terrorists incidents as 9/11, 7/77, Oklahoma-Madrid-Bali bombings, etc. are designed to deflect from the deeper economic issues that, for example, were current when during the 1930s depression the National Socialists emerged in Germany. The Germans refused to submit to the then prevailing economic model of financial usury, and proclaimed autarky as a guiding principle for Germany's re-birthing process – and this meant that the country disconnected from the international financial system that till then had a stranglehold on Germany.

I am reminded of the Australian incident that illustrates this problem somewhat. During the 1930s farmers in the State of Queensland, as elsewhere in the world, were saddled with crippling debt to their banks. A group of farmers marched to Brisbane and occupied state parliament for some hours and asked for government relief from the oppressive debt burden. The government refused, claiming it did not have the money to assist farmers. When a little later World War Two broke out suddenly there was money available to finance the war! And so the 'Pineapple Revolution' failed, and perhaps it was destined to fail because many of the farmers that made their way to Brisbane had German-sounding names!

Most of the above matters raised become relevant when considering Deanna Spingola's book, and as usual when reviewing a book I retain the two basic categories: Form and Content.

2. FORM

This is a 670-page book and as the ISBN indicates it comes in three versions: soft cover, hard cover and electronic version:

ISBN: 978-1-4269-5462-7 (sc), ISBN: 978-1-4269-5463-4 (hc), ISBN: 978-1-4269-6063-5 (e)

Except for a few black and white prints of documents and individuals mentioned in the text the reader looking for pictures will find none. This is a heavy read, all text, and there's no picture-looking, except for the startling cover where at the lower half there is in darkened imagery a huge square populated conference table, like the UN Security Council setting. Above hovers a globe of the world around which is bound a chain, from north to south and east to west, perhaps inadvertently forming a cross – one of the most significant symbols of our expressed common humanity. The conference floor is carpet red, and it can be imagined that the world hovering over this red carpet is hurtling towards the fiery abyss that it currently blocks out but which certainly could invoke an image of Dante's Inferno.

A brief Acknowledgements section of four sentences has the author thank her family, publisher, editors and a list of persons who influenced her work, and a two-page Introduction precede the 3-page Contents section.

The author states that her work could have been titled: 'The Ruling Psycho-Sociopaths' because her basic thesis is that the global ruling elite lives by other rules, i.e. 'Sociopaths or psychopaths survive by taking advantage of our ignorance and naivety ... climb the ranks of most social hierarchies, habitually lie without remorse, and always say whatever is necessary to acquire position'.

The 9 sections that make up the book's Contents are not numbered, and each section divides into sub-sections or chapters where the flood of details is unstoppable:

The Banking and Industrial Elite – 9 chapters – p.1

Social Engineering – 6 chapters – p.87

Elitists and Secret Societies – 3 chapters – p.140

Slavery and Emancipation – 7 chapters – p.162

The Founders, Economics and Warfare – 12 chapters – p.228

The Southern Scoundrels – 8 chapters – p.313

Preparing for the Revolution – 9 chapters – p. 370

America's Socialist Revolution – 16 chapters – 440

Ethnic Cleansing in America – 10 chapters – p. 559.

The 3-page Conclusion is followed by a 19-page INDEX, which I found a little wanting in places. Refreshingly I found there was no reference to Adolf Hitler, Nazis, the Holocaust or Auschwitz, though Ward Churchill's 1997 published book: A Little Matter of Genocide, Holocaust and Denial in the Americas 1492 to the Present, is referenced as footnote 1982. There is mention of the ADL, anti-semitism, Communism, Freemasons, French Revolution, Hegel, Kant, Ku Klux Klan, City of London, Karl Marx, JS Mill, Montesquieu, Napoleon, Pestalozzi, Douglas Reed, Cecil Rhodes, Rothschild Round Table, Schelling, Schopenhauer, Feuerback Herder, Metternich, Siemens, Max Weber, Voltaire, Weishaupt, Skull & Bones, slavery, typhoid/typhus, University Berlin-Jena-Leipzig-Chicago. Although mentioned in the text Joseph Conrad's name nor his book, 'Heart of Darkness' does not appear in the Index.

There is no BIBLIOGRAPHY and instead there is the reliance on the old convention of continuous footnoting – 1998 footnotes! An oversight caused footnote 289 to be un-dated – unless there was no publishing date available, but then it should have been mentioned.

Also, some names should have been included in the Index. I note, for example, Michael Hoffman whose works are mentioned in the footnotes but his name does not appear in the Index. Perhaps I'm still tied to the old mode of having a comprehensive Index, but as Arthur Butz once advised me when I sent him a copy of my 713-page Fight or Flight: The Personal Face of Revisionism that contains a 15-page Index: 'You don't expect me to read it!' Luckily I had a meticulous editor who refuses to use a computer-generated index and still prefers to do the job by hand, page by page. Still, the older I get the more I sympathise with Butz's view and in my books I try to include an index for those who want to short-circuit the reading process. Perhaps that's why some currently published books do away with an index so as to stop this short-cut activity.

Proof-reading is excellent but I did find one spelling error that slipped by at p. 649, line 11 from bottom: 'co-called' should be 'so-called'. There was also the use of the verb 'hung' when it should have been 'hanged' – objects are 'hung' while people are 'hanged', so according to basic English usage; but this is also subject to development/decline as English simplifies to further adapt itself in its role as the universal language.

3. CONTENT

Where to begin? That's the problem when considering this tome and hence my above lengthy introduction and commentary to current events. After all, the book appears to me to be developing an understanding of what intellectual impulses are operating within the American psyche and where they came from, and with what consequences these impulses were turned into physical reality when today's United States of America was up for grabs as Europe prepared itself for opening up the new world for conquest and exploitation.

That's the basic background thrust of the book, then to give a detailed account of the American intellectual heritage and how its roots go back to 15th and 16th century Europe, in particular to Bavaria where the Illuminate originated and where Talmudic impulses propelled individuals into action in the New World.

A German on-line book service is already offering a book on Freemasons: Von Truman bis Breivik - info@deutscher-buchdienst.de wherein the link is made between US President Harry Truman, a Masonic Grand Master and Anders Behring Breivik, a Master Mason. Both men showed no regret for perpetrating horrendous acts against humanity: Truman, through an executive order on 6 August 1945, ordered the atomic bombing of Hiroshima, and on 22 July 2011 Breivik massacred 69 Norwegians; both killers aimed to establish a New World Order.

Still, I have a worry when we talk about secret societies. On the one hand its members, and the general public, believe they are carrying secrets that are shared only among its members and not known by outsiders, but then in her book the author mentions countless names of individuals who make up the secret societies she illuminates. Does this confirm the notion that in time the truth will always out?

The author claims that through the European Illuminate and Freemasonry organisations it is the Jewish networking and Talmudic-based thrustings that largely determined the physical conquest of the New World and the acquisition of its riches.

If we move forward and consider the period in which the US capital, Washington, was planned, then of course Spingola proves her case, as was recently popularly revealed in Dan Brown's 2009 novel about Freemasonry – The Lost Symbol. Washington is a city full of Masonic symbolism, and this has expressed itself politically. On 25 May 2011 the Israeli prime Minister addressed the United States Congress and the embarrassing fawning of its members – was it 29 standing ovations? – indicated that the mix of Christian Zionists and Masonic affiliations has saturated and made Congress subservient to a foreign power.

The claim that European universities, especially the German ones such as Leipzig and Berlin and Göttingen were hotbeds of Illuminati intellectual activity needs to be tempered a little by what was happening at other prominent German universities, such as Heidelberg and Tübingen. Hence my contention that the author's assertions need to be augmented by such consideration, and that to regard the impulses emanating from Weishaupt's original musings, officially beginning on 1 May 1776 when he founded his Order of the Illuminati, have carried right through to this day. Certainly it was of importance that Weishaupt came from a Jewish family that converted to Catholicism, thereby synthesising these conceptual worlds into his Illuminati structure, which later was absorbed by the Jewish-directed Talmudic/Masonic thought structures.

For example, Marxist thoughts and its dialectic materialism is a copy of what Talmudic thought is all about, primarily the dividing of the world into a crisp and uncompromising them-us: Jews and non-Jews, only for Marx it was atheistic class conflict that drove his dialectic materialism. The Jewish them-us is best expressed in Kol Nidre, the prayer for the beginning of Yom Kippur that offer an 'annulment of vows or a celebration of the deceptions to come':

"All personal vows we are likely to make, all personal oaths and pledges we are likely to take between this Yom Kippur and the next Yom Kippur, we publicly renounce. Let them all be relinquished and abandoned, null and void, neither firm nor established. Let our personal vows, pledges and oaths be considered neither vows nor pledges nor oaths."

Note that this year Yom Kippur begins at sundown on 7 October and ends on Saturday, 8 October. This oath enables Jews to work, without conscience and good will, in a host nation, and it explains why such 'parasitic' behaviour has led to Jewish expulsions throughout these past thousand years. It explains why, when the Bolsheviks wrested political power from the Russian people, one of the first enacted laws criminalised as a capital offence acts of 'antisemitism'.

A recent news item further illustrates this mindset's structure:

Court tables ruling in 'mesira' contempt case, JTA, September 8, 2011

A federal court judge said she will rule at a later date in the case of a Chasidic Jew who will not testify because he says it would violate "mesira," the injunction against turning Jews over to non-Jews. Margaret Morrow of the U.S. District Court in Los Angeles heard arguments Wednesday in the case involving Rabbi Moshe Zigelman. Prosecutors want Morrow to imprison Zigelman for contempt unless he testifies against others in an alleged tax fraud scheme that involved his Spinka sect, The Los Angeles Times reported. Zigelman, an executive assistant to the sect's leader, already has served a 2-year sentence for his role in the scheme, which involved soliciting large tax-deductible donations and secretly funneling most of the money back to the donors. Zigelman, 64, says his testimony would violate "mesira," although most modern scholars say it applies only in regimes that oppress Jews.

I call the Talmudic-Marxist dialectic a death dialectic because Marx himself claimed to have turned Hegel upside down. It was Hegel who regarded the highest form of human development to be from the material base to the spiritual – the symbolic pyramid where the Idea reigns supreme. Marx opposed any transcendence and advocated the dictatorship of the proletariat, and to this day you can see individuals, who are afflicted by such thought-structure, lacking any civilising virtues on account of their rejecting idealism. Hence for the Marxist the truth-concept has no existential value, does not exist. Truth is what you make it!

Interestingly, in the current political climate the outgrowth of all this is the human rights movement that seems to seek to impose a kind of dictatorship, and if that does not work, then the claim of victimhood is made out. Such is the nature of the dictatorial mindset that operates on the Talmudic-Marxist dialectic thought-pattern.

Spingola briefly mentions the Hegelian dialectic but then actually continues to refer to the Marxist death dialectic that does not compromise as does Hegel's life-giving dialectic which, for example, sets up a thesis, then the antithesis and as these opposites interact they form a synthesis that conserves elements of both the thesis and antithesis. This is best explained by man-woman = child, the latter conserves in itself half of the two opposites that produce it. The Marxist dialectic has opposites clashing in a life-death struggle with one killing the other: man-woman = androgynous individual. The current gay-rights movement attempts to overcome its biological limitations through legal-verbal rhetoric as campaigns are mounted to sanction same-sex marriages and parenthood.

Within the legal sphere it was Christopher Steele who formulated it thus: 'Do I tell the truth or do I obey the law?'

The Talmudic-Marxists state that the law must be obeyed while the Hegelians would claim morally upright citizens must do both – tell the truth and obey the law.

By merely obeying the law moral and intellectual cowardice develops, and we saw this rise and then break down as did the Marxist-Communist ideology until 1989 in the former Soviet Union and its satellites.

Now, Spingola, it appears to me, would only partially agree with such an analysis because her contention is that elites that control world events live by different rules to those who do not belong to any known elites.

Again, this in parts reminds me of Marx's false consciousness that he embraces as he develops his class-conflict theory. A person may claim to belong to an elite group, and be regarded by others as belonging to an elite but that then is easily refuted by close scrutiny of what such an elite person/organisation is all about. I think the author points out the essence of what makes an elite to be the establishing of a physical domination and exploitation/ exercise of power over individuals. It could be said that the above mindset is thus essentially an ideological/religious matter stemming from the Abrahamic religions: Judaism, Christianity, Islam.

I consider it helpful if we broaden and augment the intellectual framework by introducing the basic philosophical concepts of: British Empiricism – moving from one particular to the next without ever reaching an over-arching understanding of what theoretical concepts control human behaviour, which is partially what basic scientific research is all about, i.e. being open to new and non-theory-laden impulses; French Rationalism – meticulously developing a beautifully logical coherent abstract explanatory rational structure that, if the premise on which it rests is false, then reveals itself to be a mere smoke-and-mirror apparition, as we note when scientists develop ideologies such as those structures that are supposed to 'prove' climate change/global warming/the existence of HIV, etc.; and German Idealism – beginning with romantic notions of love, trust, justice, honour, God, etc. all serving as the motor of one's personal expression of values within a worldview/Weltanschauung that politically leads to the Volksgemeinschaft where an inclusive/evolutionary/genetic theory of knowledge works with nature and not against nature. A mixture of all three forms the essence of European thought. All three, it can be said, gave rise to the New World, the subject matter of Spingola's book, and are giving rise to the currently emerging NEW WORLD ORDER! Within this context the Talmudic mystery-mongering and deception mechanisms are merely notorious distractions, if not disaster-producing parasitic thinking that's merely piggy-backing on European thought-structures.

But let's end this review before I write more of what I think. It is in this respect that I found Deanna Spingola's book refreshingly stimulating and worthy of a re-read. Many issues she raises need more reflection, and that is much appreciated, especially because in her research she names the names that are the carriers and advocates of the Illuminati thought structure, and which make up the various elite groups that perpetrated the enslavement and genocides.

Postscript: Interestingly, from Peter Wakefield Sault I received a copy of his 13 September 2011 email with the comments that also broaden the issues that Spingola addresses in her book:

Subject: Re: Fw: Probability of another false-flag is high...

I have come to realize that Zionism is a product of Freemasonry more than it is of Judaism. As far as I can discern, the Rothschilds - the High Table of Judaism - have used their Jewishness to mislead Low and Middle Table Jews and to pursue Masonic aims. It is Freemasonry that wants the Muslims off the Jerusalem acropolis so it can "rebuild" the mythical Temple of "Solomon" (actually Sol-Amon, or Amon-Ra) and Hiram Abid.

Somewhere along the line, between 50,000 and 250,000 years of Egyptian (and World) history were sent down the Pharaonic memory hole (the memory hole was a Pharaonic device usually reserved for individuals) and the 'Tanakh' was put in its place, so this is an ancient conspiracy that we are looking at, going back perhaps some 2,500 years. Alexander attempted it but got lost in Afghanistan and ended up in India instead of China. This conspiracy involves the conquest of the Great Circle Way, whose western terminator is Liberia. Western Freemasonry, the Rome-London-Washington triumvirate, has pretty much conquered as far as the High Pass through the Himalayas via Kashmir, with a few gaps yet to be attacked, such as Tehran (which itself lies on the Great Circle Way) and now, apparently, Egypt. The High Pass is China's back door. It is in Kashmir that it is most likely that tactical nuclear weapons will first be used.

The core of the conspiracy appears to rotate around an homosexual pedophile human-sacrificing "priesthood", for pederasty formed a part of Masonic Greek (i.e. Heliopolitan) culture. Cultures controlled by Freemasons are characterized by piles of dressed stone and human sacrifice (Freemasonry at its core is all about the design and construction of sacrificial altars but I won't go into the whole deal here as it is long and complex).

And thus the final word on what drives the world into disasters and suffering has not been spoken, and fascination with Adolf Hitler's National Socialists continues unabated. I think Dr Wilhelm Stäglich was right when he said that only once every thousand years someone like Hitler comes along to liberate peoples from debt-slavery, multiculturalism and pseudo-democracy.

IKEA founder 'was Nazi recruiter'

IKEA's billionaire founder Ingvar Kamprad was a member of the Swedish Nazi party and was such a concern to secret service they opened a file on him, according to a new book.

By Richard Orange, Malmö, 5:56PM BST 24 Aug 2011

Ikea founder Ingvar Kamprad

The 1943 file, revealed in a book published on Wednesday by Swedish journalist Elisabeth Åsbrink, will revive the long-standing controversy over the far right sympathies of the 85-year-old businessman.

It proves for the first time that Mr Kamprad was an active member of Svensk Socialistisk Samling – the successor to the Swedish Nationalist Socialist Workers Party – even detailing his membership number, 4013.

It quotes letters intercepted from Mr Kamprad, then 17, in which he enthuses about recruiting new members and says that he "misses no opportunity to work for the movement".

The secret service concluded that, as Mr Kamprad received the party's youth newspaper, he must have held "some sort of official position within the organisation".

Ms Åsbrink accused Mr Kamprad of failing to come clean about the full extent of his Nazi past.

"He said in 1998 that he would get everything up on the table and that there would be nothing hidden. Why then didn't he tell us that he was a member of the worst Nazi party, and that the police found it serious enough to create a file on him?" she said.

Mr Kamprad has long fought to escape the stain of his involvement with the far right New Swedish Movement, revelations of which first surfaced with the publication of the letters of the group's leader, Per Engdahl, in 1994.

Those letters showed that Mr Kamprad gave money and recruited members, and that Mr Engdahl had been one of a select few invited to Mr Kamprad's wedding.

Ms Åsbrink said Mr Kamprad's feelings about Mr Engdahl remained mixed even today. "Per Engdahl was a great man, this I will maintain for as long as I live," he told her last year in a two-hour interview recorded for her book.

In 1998, Mr Kamprad said he could not remember whether he had been a member of Nordic Youth, Sweden's equivalent of the Hitler Youth, when faced by further revelations.

But he has never admitted to membership of the more radical Svensk Socialistisk Samling, which was so close to the German Nazi party that it had dropped the Swastika symbol only a few years before Mr Kamprad joined.

Ms Åsbrink's book, And in Wienerwald the trees remain, details Mr Kamprad's long friendship with a young Jewish refugee who came to work on his family farm and then played a key role in the team that launched IKEA.

"He came from a background where it was normal to speak badly about Jews, but when he met Otto, they became the closest friends," she said.

A spokesman for Mr Kamprad downplayed the revelations as "old news".

"Ingvar Kamprad gave a detailed account back in 1994 about what he describes as his 'youthful sins' and the 'biggest mistake of his life', apologising and asking for forgiveness from all parties involved. The IKEA he created is based on democratic principles and embraces a multicultural society."
